Eugene Siler Says: "Sell Republicanism"

Former United States Representative Eugene Siler of Williamsburg called upon Perry County Republicans Monday night to "sell Republicanism" to voters and revive "the party of Lincoln" in America as "a party of the people."

Speaking to about 100 Republicans at a dinner at Don's Restaurant, sponsored by Perry County Republican Women, Siler listed five "lights" his party represented and should seek to turn on again:

The light of freedom, of the indivisibility of the union, of the desire to pay our national debt, of the sound dollar and of reduced taxes.

"We have had our moments of greatness," Siler told his Republican audience, "and we will again."

Eugene Siler

In an address titled "Lincoln, Lyndon and Let The Light Shine," Siler described the founding of the Republican Party and called Abraham Lincoln "the daddy of all Republicans and Republicanism."

He then compared President Johnson to Lincoln, pointing out that, in contrast to Lincoln's fabled integrity, the President today is a "Wheeler-dealer" and "bosom companion" of men like Bobby Baker.

With respect to Bobby Baker's alleged misconduct as a top assistant to then Senator Johnson, Siler said "Either LBJ knew what was going on, or he wasn't smart enough to be president."

Siler said that while President Johnson makes a big show of such things as turning out the lights in the White House, "he expands the war in Viet Nam" and throws away money on foreign aid.

VISTA Visitors

One feature of the VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America) conference at Alice Lloyd College last weekend was a guided tour to points of interest in the region for the out-of-state college professors and students in attendance. One highlight of several of the tours was a visit to Hazard. Mayor Willie Dawahare is shown above playing host to one group interested in Hazard's government and plans for the future.

Washington Rejects Wrong Poverty Project

A mix-up at the Office of Economic Opportunity in Washington that caused Hazard Mayor Willie Dawahare to write a strong letter of protest to President Johnson last week has been explained, but out of the explanation may come an even greater complication.

Mayor Dawahare, who until recently was Chairman of the Upper Kentucky River Area Development Council, complained to the President when a letter from Frederick Hayes, associate director for community action in the OEO, informed him that a locally-sponsored anti-poverty project had been disapproved. The letter did not specifically mention which anti-poverty project it was talking about, but the only one the UKRADC has officially endorsed was a summer recreation project sponsored by the Hindman Settlement School, and it was locally assumed that this was the project the OEO was rejecting.

A check with Mr. Hayes in Washington reveals, however, that OEO was not talking about the recreation project in the letter of rejection, but about another project that would hire an Indiana planning agency to represent the Upper Kentucky River Council in drawing up its plans for the "war on poverty" in this region.

The question in the minds of UKRADC leaders now is, who applied for the planning grant, worth some $130,000, in the name of the Upper Kentucky River Council?

The Council was asked last fall by a delegate from City Planners Associates, Inc. of Mishawaka, Indiana to consider retaining the firm to do the anti-poverty planning in the Upper Kentucky River region.

The delegate, Tom Brademas, was told the Council would consider the offer by City Planners Associates but later, when communications between the Council and the firm became confused, and the Council wrote the firm giving it 10 days to answer, the firm did not reply.

Mr. Crutcher pledges, if elected, to work "for the people," by supporting all community projects, all training programs, to work for better roads and education, and to keep well-informed on all action taken by the county government in regard to the smaller communities.

Judge Ward modified his restraining order yesterday morning about 9 a.m. after attorneys for both the company and the union agreed on the step.

The modified restraining order enjoins the pickets to not bear arms, use abusive or insulting language against company workers, or to try to intimidate them.

This order will be in effect until a further motion from either side, Judge Ward said this afternoon.

The Judge issued his original restraining order against all picketing after Ernest Creech, a Blue Diamond worker, was shot in the back and killed March 3 as he was on his way home from work.

ice was rejecting last week instead of Hindman's recreation project.

That project, by the way, is still being considered by the OEO, Mr. Hayes said this morning.

Tom Brademas' brother, John, of South Bend, Indiana is the Representative to Congress from the Indiana district in which City Planners Associates has its headquarters.

Mayor Dawahare is in Washington this week to talk with officials in the Office of Economic Opportunity. He met with Mr. Hayes this morning.

Mr. Hayes told the Hazard Herald today that it rejected the project for regional planning because several counties in this area have indicated they prefer to do their own planning on a county-wide basis.

Letcher and Leslie Counties have already been granted planning funds, and a request for similar funds is being considered for Perry County.

Removing Perry County's Worst Blight: Old Cars

The Perry County cleanup and beautification drive is down to real business this week as a crane from the Hazard Vocational School has been loading old auto hulls onto a State Forestry truck for disposal. State Sanitation Consultant Steve Sandlin said that the cleanup crew in the Buckhorn area disposed of 15 old cars today. The Community Facilities Committee of the PCDA is offering to remove old cars from private property free of charge. Law enforcement officials have been issuing orders to property owners who decline this free service, giving them 24 hours to remove from public view such litter as old cars or otherwise face arrest. The pictures above show the crane loading an abandoned car hull.

Wells' Libel Case Appeal Upheld By Higher Court

The Kentucky Court of Appeals has reversed a Perry Circuit Court's decision against former Circuit Judge C. C. Wells in his libel suit against William P. Morton of Hazard.

Last April 20, special Circuit Judge William Dixon of Leslie County dismissed Judge Wells' libel suit against Morton "on grounds that (he) failed to state facts showing he is entitled to relief," but Wells appealed the local decision and his appeal was upheld in a ruling handed down March 26.

Judge Wells asked for a $100,000 judgement against Morton who, Wells charged, published "libelous and slanderous matter" against him in the Hazard Herald and over radio station WKIC during the 1963 campaign for Circuit Judge, eventually won by Republican Don A. Ward.

allege in his suit that Morton had libeled him with malice and a "reckless disregard" of the truth.

But the Court of Appeals said it was not necessary that Wells charge "actual malice" in his suit, and on that ground the Court upheld Wells' appeal and returned the case to Perry Circuit Court.

"Actual malice" was defined in the Court of Appeals' ruling as a statement made "with knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not."

The Great C-J And The OEA

A Courier-Journal editorial the other day titled "Frustrating Confusion Besets Some Poverty War Fronts" was well taken when it recommended that Sargent Shriver give up his dual role in Washington as head of both the Peace Corps and Office of Economic Opportunity and concentrate his full efforts on the latter, which badly needs someone at the top to take a strong hand in straightening out the chaos here on the front lines of the poverty war.

But the Courier showed a surprising naivete when it seemed unable to understand the reasoning behind the OEO's intent to bypass normal government channels and deal directly with the people in setting up "community action" programs to combat poverty.

The Courier said: "Someone has decided that these programs must be initiated by direct consultation with 'the poor'; that they should bypass 'local power structure' and be run independently of other state agencies dealing with other aspects of the President's poverty program. Such efforts can lead only to administrative chaos. How can community programs be organized and carried out without the knowledge or permission of the local power structure, if by this is meant the local units of government?"

The Courier, and others who think "local units of government" are the logical ones to wage the poverty war should take a look at certain of our foreign aid projects, in which vast amounts of American dollars are funneled into a given country, intended to relieve the miseries of the poor, but which somehow never do get that far down in the ranks, but serve only to fatten the already fat existing "local units of government," while the legitimate poor never even realize the funds have been sent from dear old Uncle Sam in the first place.

This same tendency is already apparent in the administration of the Economic Opportunity Act. Existing "units of government" seem to be about the only ones so far that the OEO will listen to, and this tendency is dangerous and could ultimately defeat whatever

EDUCATION

By Betsy Napier
8th grade, Chavies School

Education is a benefit to all Americans; it helps them to qualify for better jobs.

As young girls and boys, it is important that you get a good education.

In the future you will be unable to get a job without an education.

Because our fathers dropped out of school at an early age they are forced to work in mines and vocational programs. "So remember a good education will qualify you for a better job."

OUR READERS WRITE

A Tourist Discusses Tourism

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Nolan
The Hazard Herald
Dear Nolans:

I was enormously impressed by your recent editorial, "IF TOURISTS COME." You are indeed right when you opine that the greatest tourist attraction of Eastern Kentucky is its colorful and turbulent past. I have been visiting your country off and on for 35 years and know it and love it as "a country apart."

Drawn by the John Fox books, one of my greatest travel thrills was on my first visit. I followed "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," and when I actually saw Hell-fer-Sartin Creek, and Troublesome and Kingdom Come, and stood on Pine Mountain I felt I was in the land of my ancestors.

Thirty-five years ago visitors were not always welcome in the back country, but for some reason I got along nicely with the people and was always made welcome. As I am even today.

One thing puzzles me. Our westerners have clothed their pistol-packing Bad Men with romance. The legends of rifle-roaring cow towns such as Dodge City and Abilene are carefully preserved. They have made heroes of some of the most notorious killers. Their cattle wars have been glamorized. Out of it all has come a literature and an endless round of movies that have made the cowboy a hero throughout the world. Also a stampede of tourists.

Sadly the most popular "historian" of the southern mountains has been Al Capp; the misguided creator of Dog Patch and all its grotesque characters. He has painted your country into a never-never land.

Outside the mountains the public has been taught that the family wars were only tribal killings by ignorant savages who shot each other for generation after generation because a French killed an Everose pig.

Except among scholars there is no understanding of the enormous emotional involvement following the Civil War: of the struggles for political power, and other factors. I do not at all discount the clan loyalties that played a part. Whatever the reasons, the fact remains that the bloody Old West was a Sunday School compared with the Southern Mountains.

I am not saying this very well, friends Nolans, but you too must sense that this was a serious period in American history that should be preserved as it happened.

However it is fading. The court houses I saw years ago that were pock-marked by bullets are disappearing or getting false lifts. In the tourist-conscious West they are carefully preserving such relics, and marking them with bronze plaques telling the story. The old jails that saw so much violence have disappeared. At least I have seen none in recent years. In the West they would parade them proudly.

The deadly true stories of the mountain wars have never been written. Why should they be avoided? The only recent authentic history of the southern mountaineer I have been able to get is Harry Caudill's book. I know of only one other: Kephart's work "Our Southern Highlanders," written after he had lived for years in western North Carolina. It is now out of print and my copy has disappeared.

Only vaguely do outsiders know the story of the labor wars. In my recent visits I have seen none of the outstandingly crude camps that were prominent years ago. If there are still any left they should be preserved. So also should a few of the Company Stores. Some of the disgraceful one-room school houses should be maintained. And are there any left of the "family" coal mines, when father and a couple of sons hand-push a little car a half-mile into the mountain to bring out coal bit by bit? On rails made of saplings? I saw them years ago.

These are the things of which "tourist country" is made. Long ago New England, the Deep South, the Southwest and California learned to capitalize on the things such as many of your business people consider their shame.

With a long background of advertising and public relations, may I venture the following opinion:

Good roads and better towns will never in the world enable you to compete with the high pressure salesmen of mountains, lakes, ocean and scenery elsewhere.

However a publicity campaign based on the Kentucky Mountains as "A dark and bloody ground" with relics of your turbulent past, and with explanation booklets by men like Harry Caudill, could draw multitudes.

Make your towns and cities show places if you will. By all means provide good tourist accommodations.

But DON'T, DON'T erase all trace of a past that has far more glamour than the Old West, and far more authenticity. The very names of your mountain towns are the finest tourist bait I know. Don't destroy all evidence of one of the most spectacular periods in American history. The thing that has brought me down year after year will bring tourists if enough of it is left.

Sincerely,
FRANK A. COOPER

VISTA In Perry County

to provide recreation for young people.

The volunteers are assigned on a yearly basis by VISTA headquarters, once a community's application for a worker has been approved. VISTA is just now getting organized. Only a few projects are underway in the whole nation. But several hundred volunteers are expected to be ready to go "into the field" from their various training camps by early summer. It would seem that these Perry County communities would profit by at least investigating the possibilities of having a VISTA worker in their midst for a year.

Complete information can be obtained by writing to: Velma Lindford, Director, Rural Projects, VISTA, 1200 19th St. NW, Washington, D. C.

And while we're on the subject of volunteer workers in the fight against poverty, we'd like to ask again a question we have asked before: how many young students from Hazard and Perry County are concerned enough about the conditions in their home region to become actively involved in their improvement? How many have enough guts to forego a year of personal indulgence at the drive-in and the ball games to really do something worthwhile, on behalf of someone other than themselves? How many local young men and women will become VISTA volunteers?

The minimum age is only 18.

High Pressure Sports

Are high school sports overemphasized in Hazard?

That question seems relevant in the wake of the intense feelings surrounding Hazard's near-miss at the state basketball championship in Louisville two weeks ago.

That the loss to Breckenridge County was a source of extremely high emotion, and even deep resentment against the boys on the team, can hardly be denied.

Among the students, a certain amount of disappointment is quite natural for a time. The championship would have been a prize Hazard High School could have taken pride in for many years to come, just as it is proud to have been state champions in 1932 and 1955.

But such fierce involvement in the fortunes of the high school team by local adults is quite another matter. Many adults seemed to think that the reputation of our whole town, as a town, was somehow at stake in the tournament. It is these same older people who are the real source of what is most wrong with high school sports in Kentucky.

They would make high school athletics into a form of show business, and charge the young athletes with the heavy responsibility of satisfying their lust for entertainment. The most entertaining team is, of course, one that wins. And when the boys happen to lose, the adults who are so wrapped up in high school sports feel personally affronted, let down, disappointed, and they take their resentment out on the boys because they didn't win.

Such "fans" are a fickle breed indeed. As the emphasis on interscholastic sports continues to increase, as the gyms get larger and the amount of money involved in big-time tournaments continues to climb, as the community adults continue to be more involved in school athletics than the students are, then the boys on the team are going to suffer accordingly. Their individuality, their personal identities as young students first of all and athletes second of all fall into very grave danger of being lost in the tremendous mass excitement over what they do on the field or gym floor.

High school athletics are supposed to be fun for a boy. The minute it becomes a chore to play on a team, then sports have become too big-time to tolerate. The minute athletics become a distraction from classroom studies, they should be immediately de-emphasized.

To many local people, the fine young men on Hazard's basketball team this year were no more than gladiators were to ancient Roman audiences. After a highly successful season that any team could have been proud of, these strange and unreasonable "fans" turned their thumbs downward when the boys lost a game.

Sadly, these individuals fail to realize that basketball is only a game, and that Hazard's players were only school boys wanting to enjoy themselves, and not a crew of professional entertainers.

Hazard Native Is Successful Artist In Alaska

(Editor's Note: Alex Duff Combs is the son of Mrs. Effie Newberry Combs and the late Alex D. Combs of Hazard. Many of his former school mates may remember him as an athlete at Hazard High School in 1936-38. Combs played football and basketball at the University of Kentucky. He is the nephew of Mrs. Bertie Turner of Hazard. The article was originally published in the Anchorage, Alaska, DAILY TIMES).

Well known artist and teacher, Alex Duff Combs, makes the most of living in Alaska. He not only actively promotes art in the area by spending nearly all of his time at it but seeks to "understand the country."

Combs who has been here almost 10 years says that he "is just beginning to get the feel of it." Those who have seen this artist's works might concur that his aim is not to express Alaska realistically.

His paintings are impressionistic more than anything else and his recent works have a strong linear effect. By using the dark emphasizing lines and strong colors, Combs says that he hopes to express the strength of Alaska. "Most Alaskan painters tend to romanticize the country," Combs states.

The artist is versatile. He works with oils, watercolors, ceramics, mosaics, and with most every other medium in the field. And with all of these works something of Alaska is reflected.

Combs lately has been working with enamel paintings. Some of them are currently on exhibit at MKI Gallery and Showroom, 2330 Spenard Rd. The exhibit is the one which recently was shown at the University Art Gallery at Stanford University, in Palo Alto, Calif.

The new kind of work "was met with enthusiastic response," according to Mel Kohler, owner of MKI Gallery. Several were bought and now hang in homes in the Palo Alto area. Other of Combs paintings hang in the Mayo Clinic, in Rochester, N. Y., Philadelphia, Pa., and Chicago, Ill.

His paintings have repeatedly won first place in the Anchorage Fur Rendezvous art shows and his ceramics are commonly seen in Alaskan households.

Students Work From Live Model

Working attentively, Combs students sculpt from a live model. Combs feels the most important thing in art instruction is to be able to reproduce a work fairly accurately from a model. The teacher himself, in the center, above, renders with the students. The class meets at a local junior high school and is part of a weekday evening schedule of art classes that Combs heads as professor in art.

Of this, Combs says that "the public is becoming more sophisticated about art. With all of the machine produced goods they feel a need to own something which expresses the emotional quality that an artist pours into a work."

Then, too, Combs, says that the artist's character has changed in the last twenty years. Not so much apart from society, he now recognizes the necessity of being a part of it. Most artists now carry on a full or parttime job to supplement their income whereas it used to be "success or starvation."

Combs, himself, works nightly from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., as an assistant professor of art at Community College. He instructs classes in oil paintings, sculpture, and history of art.

The artist has been teaching for 16 years and says that he "loves it." He taught at Tyler School of Arts at Temple University, in Philadelphia, Pa., where he received his B.A. and M.F.A. degrees. He also studied with Victor d'Amico at the Museum of Modern Art, New York City.

When he first reached Alaska, a trip he took with his family on funds from a sellout exhibit of ceramics in Philadelphia, Pa., he worked as art coordinator with the school district. Combs has since taught numerous classes for adults as well as youngsters.

He has also opened several galleries—each time in his own home. The last one, "The Little Art Center," he opened in his home on Raspberry Road where he lives with his wife, Muriel, and three sons, Samuel, Jonathan, and David.

During the earthquake Combs lost some sculptures and he confesses that he hasn't "been able to get into the mood to do any more since losing the 16 pieces."

The resourceful Combs has used the Inlet clay and some from the Usibelli Mines in his ceramics. With his sculpture, he has used Alaskan soapstone and wood.

With resources not only in raw materials but in creative inspiration, Combs feels that Alaska could be a real tourist attraction if developed as a cultural center.

In the meantime he's working quietly toward that goal. Combs says that he is here to stay, "It's hard to think of leaving now."

Sculpture Is Popular

Combs gives several helpful hints to Mrs. Mikell-Lillieberg, a student in his sculpture class which he says is the most popular one, with the largest enrollment and the best attendance. As far as grading in his art classes, all the teacher demands is that the student be able to express himself in his work.

Hazard City Schools Will Take Part In Teaching Career Month April 1-30

April 1-30 will see the Hazard City Schools participating in Teaching Career Month, a program sponsored by the National Education Association to focus public attention on the need for getting and keeping good teachers on all levels, according to an announcement by Mrs. Ovetta Basey, Chairman of Teacher Education and Professional Standards Committee of the Hazard Education Association.

"The Changing Face of Teaching" is this year's theme for Teaching Career Month and observances will highlight the distance the teaching profession has traveled as well as the anticipated changes that will carry it even further. Teaching Career Month has a two-fold purpose: To raise the prestige of people already in the teaching profession and to encourage more able young people to enter the profession.

According to Mrs. Basey, there was a time when the image of the teacher was that of a sweet, maidenly old lady who might not have gone much further in school than her young charges.

Today's teacher is a highly educated person, who, as a matter of course, received training shaped by the discoveries of modern psychology and all the technological research of our automated society. He has a new understanding of the learning process, and has at his fingertips, techniques that grew out of that understanding. And he expects in the future to have an even greater comprehension of the mind and its capacity to learn and to have available more advanced devices to facilitate the learning process.

Boat and Ski Club Holds Dinner Meet

Spring is here and everyone's thoughts are turning to boating. This was the theme of the covered dish dinner for members and guests held by the Buckhorn Boat & Ski Club Saturday night March 27. Acting Master of Ceremonies was Mr. Ernest Sparkman Activity Chairman of the Club.

The new officers and old officers were asked to stand as they were presented to the Club. Introduced for the year 1965 were Commodore Clyman Shelton, Mrs. John L. Ray, Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. Bobby Stacy, Publicity; and Don Duff, Water Safety Chairman.

John L. Ray was called on by the Club to tell the progress and plans for the year 1965. A letter was written asking for permission to put a loading and unloading pier on the Club's lot at Buckhorn, Kentucky, which is located within sight of the Buckhorn Lodge. The construction of the pier will be of styrofoam and wood and will be taken out of the water in the wintertime.

Also, an estimate of the cost of construction of the club's shelter was reported and within two weeks the club members will be asked to meet on the Lot at Buckhorn to start assembling the shelter. The club's engineers in the meantime, will have the levels run and stake the corners for the shelter. All plans are subject to the approval of the weather man.

After the brief talk by Mr. Ray, Commodore Clyman Shelton presented Mr. Ray with a gift in behalf of the Club for his past year's services and having the honor of being the first person to serve the Club as Commodore twice. Mr. Ray was Commodore in 1960 when the Club was chartered. Sheriff Charlie Combs reported briefly on his progress in getting permission to clean-off the adjacent property to the Club. He submitted a letter he had received stating the ways this could be done.

After the dinner the members adjourned to the upstairs Club rooms to dance to music which had been pre-arranged by Mr. Ernest Sparkman.

It's official, Bob Wright is the new head basketball coach at Morehead State College. The former Ashland mentor succeeds Bobby Laughlin who stepped up to full time athletic director.

During his tenure at Ashland Wright's teams have won 168 and lost 29. The biggest year was 1961 when the Tomcats won the state championship and Wright was named "Coach of the Year" in Kentucky.

Wright stated in his acceptance speech that it was, "a dream come true" to get the job.

Laughlin took over the reigns at Morehead in 1953 and his teams have won 166 and lost 119. Morehead has represented the OVC in the NCAA tourney three times and Laughlin was named "Coach of the Year" in 1961.

Dr. Adrain Doran, president of Morehead, announced at the ceremonies that the Morehead Fieldhouse would be re-named "The Robert G. Laughlin Health Building and Gymnasium."

Turning to Grapefruit League Baseball, the St. Louis Cardinals picked up where they left off on the New York Yankees as the Red Birds downed the Bronx Bombers 4-3 in action on Tuesday.

This was the first meeting between the world champion Cardinals and their old manager Johnny Keane.

Keane took over the managerial post at New York right after the world series ended.

Charley Finley, the fun loving owner of the Kansas City Athletics, has introduced a mule as the mascot for his green and gold clad diamond-sters.

Finley asked the animal if the Athletics would remain in Kansas City and if it (the mule) liked A's general manager Frank Lane. The donkey didn't say anything, he started backing away.

Hank Aaron, slugging outfielder for the Milwaukee Braves has had the stitches removed from his ankle and will join his teammates in a few days.

We learned last week that football uniforms have been issued at Hazard High School for the spring football practice.

No word yet on the start of grid practice at M. C. Napier.

Seventy-Nine candidates reported for the weather delayed start of spring practice at Kentucky yesterday.

Coach Charlie Bradshaw said he was well pleased with the team's performance but didn't like its physical condition of the groups. Bradshaw said this was due partly to a soggy turf at the UK Sports Center.

Kentucky will have 19 seniors on this year's outfit including three all-America candidates Rick Norton, Roger Bird and Rick Kestner.

Jerry Conley

Conley Signs With Morehead

Jerry Conley, one of the finest basketball players in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, has signed a grant-in-aid at Morehead State College.

The 6-2, 185-pound youngster, who averaged 20.7 points a game in 29 games this season, at Jenkins High School, was signed this week by head basketball coach Bob Laughlin.

"We consider Jerry to be one of the top prospects in Kentucky," said Laughlin, "and we sincerely feel that he will develop into an outstanding performer in the Ohio Valley Conference."

Conley, who was coached by Virgil Osborne, made the all-district and all-regional teams this year and is also an outstanding football player.

He averaged 17.5 points a game as a junior and 13.7 points as a sophomore and was named to the all-district teams both years.

Conley has made the All-Eastern Kentucky Mountain Conference team for the past two years and was named the top player in the EKMC this year.

Blue Print of Poverty In Appalachian Region

By Willard M. Gilliam
Much Has Been Learned But Little Has Been Done.

For the past few years, our Appalachian Area has been surveyed, scrutinized, critized, and analyzed by many experts. Our backyards, garbage dumps and shacks, have been photographed and held up for the world to view like dirty linen on a line. Plans have been advocated to cure all our ills. However, to date, very little has been accomplished, simply because the approach has been negative rather than positive. The chief concern seems to have been in digging up our dirt and spotlighting our poverty.

Many of the programs for Appalachia, can aptly be compared to a man in the desert, dying with thirst. We try to take him a drink of water in a bucket that is full of holes. By the time we get to him, the water has leaked out and is soaked up in the desert sands. All efforts are appreciated but the methods are questioned.

Everyone who has tried in any way to solve our problems, is richly deserving of our gratitude and thanks. No criticism is intended against anyone. On the programs and their methods are questioned. Most of these appear to be someone else's brain child and offered to us on a "take it or leave it" basis. They are tossed by someone else with very little that we can do or say about them. We are only spectators rather than participants. Very little, if any, control at the local level, is welcomed or tolerated. The curse of these programs is that they never do anything on a modest scale. They attempt to make us live by someone else's standards rather than to improve our own. They are not based on the realities of life as they actually exist in Appalachia.

Half A Loaf is Better Than None.

Many of the programs formulated for Appalachia, are too ambitious with standards that cannot be met with our resources. They are much like the man who vows that if he cannot drive a Cadillac he will never own any automobile—never stopping to realize that it would be better to drive a little compact, than to go through life walking. Or, again, we could compare these "too ambitious standards" to the young man who will not marry unless he gets a "rich girl", not realizing that some nice young lady in his own community would make him a good and faithful wife until "death do us part".

We cannot all drive a Cadillac, marry rich or live in a mansion, but we all can live happy, useful and satisfying lives where we are with what we have.

To Do or Not to Do - That's the Question.

Most observant readers, will have noted that many of the programs operated for our benefit, are at cross purposes and nullify one another. Many examples could be pointed out. However, one will suffice to illustrate. In practically every county seat town one will find a Government Office paying persons and encouraging them to take land out of production. Just around the corner, or down the street, will be the County Agent's Office distributing literature, advising and encouraging farmers to increase their production. The latter we commend. The former, we deplore.

This writer is convinced, after a life time spent in the Appalachians, and having an intimate knowledge of the people and their problems, that any effective program must be designed to meet the needs of mountain people, living in the mountains, and must use the resources at their disposal however modest or limited they may be. The truth we so often overlook is that we can never work anywhere except where we are, and with what we have. (To Be Continued)

Preparation Classes For Unemployed

The State Economic Security Department is attempting to meet a self-imposed April 1 deadline to prepare unemployed parents for basic education classes now being established by local boards of education.

Commissioner C. Leslie Dawson said the department's basic aim "is to continue to improve the quality of services which are provided for these families."

"We also want to be prepared to refer our participants to basic education classes as soon as the Federal Government approves a grant to finance this adult education program," Dawson said.

The request for funds, made by the State Education Department, is now pending in the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The project will be carried out under the department's work experience and training program, part of an unemployed fathers project currently financed by a $9.6 million Federal grant under the Economic Opportunity Act in the "war on poverty."

Preparation for the project will include interviewing applicants, evaluating their needs and determining their present educational level, to see what training they should be referred to.

Members of the Frankfort central office staff in public assistance and supervisors from the nine-county area in Eastern Kentucky, where the project will be carried out, met recently to work out details of the work experience and training program.

Dawson said that in the future a much greater emphasis upon training the unemployed parent will prepare him to enter the labor market by developing or conserving his job skills.

The fathers and step-fathers in the nine counties will be assigned to adult basic education classes if their previous schooling was less than the eighth grade level, the commissioner said. If the parent attended school above the eighth grade, an attempt will be made to assign him to vocational education classes, the manpower development program, and specially-selected training programs designed to meet the needs of individual participants.

The nine counties involved in the unemployed parents program are Bell, Harlan, Perry, Floyd, Breathitt, Pike, Leslie, Letcher and Knott.

The Bulan Boy Scout Troop 97, Mr. Earl Newell master, served as ushers in the service. Mr. Newell is pastor of the Church.

He spoke Tuesday night on "Why should we take a definite stand for Jesus?"

The revival will continue through Sunday.

Mammoth Cave Hotel Will Open June 1 This Year

The New Mammoth Cave Hotel is nearing completion and the opening date is planned for June 1, 1965, according to G. B. Hanson, President and General Manager, National Park Concessions, Inc.

"The New Hotel will be a fine addition to our other accommodations and services in Mammoth Cave National Park and will make it possible to provide better services to the ever increasing number of park visitors. We will have facilities which can also be utilized for group meetings and conferences by many Kentucky organizations during the fall, winter and spring," Hanson stated.

The Motor-Hotel type building includes a spacious Dining Room and Coffee Shop; Gift, Craft and Photo Shops; Lobby; Lounge and 38 Guest Rooms, finished in attractive brick and wood decor. Each room has a private patio or balcony. The new hotel, which is of brick construction, completely air-conditioned and with room television, will be open throughout the year.

A covered walk connects the rooms with the dining and public use areas of the Hotel. The entire hotel complex, which overlooks a scenic ravine near the Historic Entrance to Mammoth Cave, is connected to the National Park Visitor Center by an arched concrete bridge.

"In 1964 nearly 800,000 persons visited Mammoth Cave National Park and we are anticipating a substantial increase in 1965," Hanson said. "Mammoth Cave National Park is one of Kentucky's top attractions and our improvements here in the park have the effect of increasing visitation to the entire area. This adds tremendously to the economic impact of the Mammoth Cave Region," Hanson added.

To receive recognition on the select list a student must have compiled 56 or more quality points.

Compiling the highest number of quality points was Glenda E. Taylor, Louisville, who earned 89 quality points based upon 20 hours of credit.

Eastern uses the 1-2-3-4-point system; an A giving four credits; B, three credits; C, two; and D, one.

Perry County students include: Sharon Cope, daughter of Mrs. Louise Cope, Bulan; Winston Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nando Copes, Vico; Wendell Ogrosky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ogrosky, Jeff; Aileen Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aster Williams, Route 1; Jean Johnson, 107 Parkway Drive, Darwin Turpin, son of Mrs. Dorothy Turpin, and James Womble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Womble, 711 East Main, all of Hazard.

Scott Presented Air Force Award

The radar operations technician was cited for directing another civilian aircraft to the lost plane—which was running low on fuel—and then vectoring them back to Patrick. He was commended specially for displaying outstanding professional skill and ingenuity.

Sergeant Scott is being reassigned to a U. S. Air Force support unit in Turkey.

The sergeant, whose wife, Lucy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Baker of Big Rock, Ky., attended Farmville High School.

My Fellow Democrats:

I take this means to ask your vote and influence in the May Primary as I am a candidate for Perry County Court Clerk. Most of you know me but to those of you who don't, I am a clerical employee for the railroad, a job I have held the past 17 years.

YOUR VOTE and support on Tuesday, May 25th will certainly be appreciated by myself and family.

Dr. Combs Advises Against Pseudoscientific Salesmen

Gone are the days of the old-time medicine show promoting cure-all elixirs and youth restoring tonics. But the medicine man is still with us. Today he is a pseudoscientific salesman who adroitly dances on a thin line between fact and fiction, selling his worthless wares to the tune of $1-billion per year. But the toll in shattered hopes, progressive illness and loss of life caused by listening to the siren song of the quack and delaying proper medical diagnosis and treatment cannot be estimated in dollars, warns Dr. Lyndon F. Combs, M.D. of the Perry County Department of Health.

The modern medicine man they make claims that are just wears many masks. He may evade enough to side-step postal laws and avoid prosecution. Favorite products range from weight reducers to body developers, insomnia cures to stay-awake preparations, hair removers to hair producers, "natural" health products from sunflower seeds to bottled sea water.

Door-to-door pseudoscientific salesmen carry their 'messages' in addition to the Food and Drug Administration, the Post Office Department, the Federal Trade Commission and other government agencies, many organizations including the American Medical Association, the Better Business Bureau and private agencies such as the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation are fighting quackery.

Two great National Congresses on Medical Quackery have been held in Washington because of the magnitude of the problem, and additional State Conferences are being held.

The American Medical Association offers six guideposts to help spot a quack. Beware if:

- 1 He uses a special or "secret" formula or machine that he claims can cure diseases;
- 2 He promises a quick or easy cure;
- 3 He advertises, using "case histories" or testimonials to impress people;
- 4 He clamors constantly for medical investigation and recognition;
- 5 He claims medical men are persecuting him or that they are afraid of his competition;
- 6 He tells you that his method of treatment is better than surgery, X-rays or drugs.

New Discovery Made in Resuscitation

BREATHING IS LIVING
By Robert J. Hastings

Any discovery that makes life easier for the handicapped is always welcome. From the Stoke Mandeville Hospital in Aylesbury, England comes the announcement of a mouth-actuated electrical switch. A patient can operate the switch merely by adjusting his breathing. He may be totally paralyzed, and still answer a telephone, adjust a TV set, or type up to a hundred words a minute by breathing lightly in and out! The switch is called "Possum" (Patient-Operated Selector Mechanism).

We have always known the importance of breathing, since all that separates the living from the dead is a breath of air slowly inhaled, and then exhaled. But now new importance is attached to the power of breathing, in that totally disabled persons can use even their breath to perform simple chores.

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation of unconscious persons continues to be a life-saving method for those who are near death from drowning, electrocution, heart failure, and respiratory difficulties. Here again, the power of a breath takes on dramatic proportions.

And in the early days of creation as God was fashioning man from the raw elements of nature, it was when he "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life" that man became a living soul. No man can ever be the same after he realizes that he is not a mere animal creation, but that he has been in-breathed with the very breath of God himself.

EXPERIENCE SPEAKING

By W. Foster "Pap" Adams
Journalist in Residence
Morehead State College

This past weekend was one of special significance for college students who are interested in campus publications. Because for two days over 50 youngsters looked beyond an academic experience toward a professional contact in the field of communications.

The youngsters were from most of the colleges and universities of Kentucky who have revitalized the old Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association.

Only recently they were dubbed the immature. Certainly the wisdom of old age is not carried on their shoulders, but over the long haul they aren't the brash, irresponsible, unethical people some would have us believe.

Immaturity needs mature advice, patience, understanding and very often sympathetic direction.

The mature people of this era were once the immature. They walked along the corridors of experience and somebody—a college professor, a friend—contributed the words of encouragement which started the process of growth and maturity.

Suppress any impulse to downgrade these young, energetic, and exciting people who have the urge to go into radio, television or journalism. Many of them will make it.

When Roger Dixon, president of the Kentucky Intercollegiate

Press Association, opened the sessions in Lexington he spoke to his contemporaries. He is presently the editor of Morehead State College's Trail Blazer and is a native of Johnson County.

The program which Roger introduced has a sufficient number of experienced and mature newspaper persons to direct the two-day meeting. They shared their knowledge and advice where needed and spent a worthwhile period with these budding young Kentucky journalists.

With an exception of two or three persons the program will be made up of people in the low twenties and range to the high thirties. This is as it should be.

Those who stand off and take the long and optimistic view, believe KIPA will be the reservoir from which there will come many into the challenging field of communications.

Who, then, are the immature? They are those with the opportunities to grow into maturity. Most of them will do that very thing.

PERRY COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

Dennis Wooton School News...

The library at the Dennis C. Wooton Elementary School has become a fascinating and wonderful part of the life of each child at the school. This did not happen overnight. The P.T.A. with constant and inspiring leadership along with Mr. Curtiss Spicer, Principal and faculty members of the school worked long and diligently for these important and essential part, of a good sound educational program. The school library has been the main project for the P.T.A. during the past two school years. Without the help of a very dedicated group of parents this very essential factor of our school program would be missing.

Our library facilities have expanded tremendously under the very able guidance of Mrs. Shirley Ison, School Librarian. At the close of the 1963-64, school year, we had only approximately 500 books. At present we have over 1400 books. These books are not of poor quality by any means but are books with library bindings selected by Mrs. Ison with great care and thoughtfulness from the Basic Books Collection and Children's Catalog which results in a nicely balanced selection.

The Library at Dennis C. Wooton Elementary School is not just a place to borrow a book but is a material center for the school. The following materials are available to the teachers and children for class room use:

Magazines, Life, Scholastic Teacher, Plays, Instructor, Grade Teacher, Jack and Jill, National Geographic, Child Life, Elementary English, American Girl, Boys Life and Readers Digest.

Five sets of Encyclopedias. Film Strip Projector with a variety of film strips. 8 mm Movie Projector, an extensive list of free and inexpensive movies.

Phonographs, Phonies records as well and song and story recordings for the Elementary School child.

Science Equipment. This is the latest non-book materials to be added to our materials and if children are to make credit will be increased during the next school year. Tape recorder. Each teacher is recording activities taking place within the class room for future reference.

Fourth, Fifth, and Sixth grade students have a 45 minute regularly scheduled library period each week. During this period Mrs. Ison gives instruction and help in the correct use of a library facilities. Mrs. Ison visits each first, second and third grade class room for 30 minutes each week for Story Time. During this time the care of books and use of library materials is stressed. From October 12, 1964 up to the present the circulation of books was 5,324 which is approximately 12 books per student.

It is progress in their subsequent education, they must learn early how to use such library tools as card catalogs, encyclopedias, atlases, and almanacs. Independent use of library resources is a skill which must be learned. In a school with a central library, children should be taught to care for books, to check out books, to read catalog cards, to use the table of contents and index, to understand a library classification system, to use atlases, encyclopedias, reference guides, dictionaries, and yearbooks. Without such training and experience, a child can be handicapped in tackling difficult tasks during his subsequent education.

Achievement Test Planned April 6

By H. C. Robertson

The Stanford Achievement test will be given at the following schools on April 6th for all 8th Grade students: Buckhorn High School will be the testing center for - Krypton, Meadow Branch, Dunraven. The 7th Grade students of Feb Fork and Middle Squabble will go to Buckhorn at this time for their 7th Grade. Otis Quick-Scoring Mental Ability test.

M. C. Napier High School will be the testing center for - Forked Mouth, Ivy Gap, Yerkes, Butterfly, Big Willard, Briar Fork, Pigeon Roost, Sonia, Hull, Lost Creek, Upper Pigeon Roost, Upper Second Creek, Sulphur Springs and Town Mountain.

Combs Memorial High School will be testing center for - Cornett Hill, Fourseam, Glomawr, Scuddy, George's Branch, Stratton and Barrett.

Leatherwood High School will be the testing center for Halcomb and Beech Fork.

Chavies, Big Creek, Blue Diamond, Combs Grade and Robinson will give test to their own students in their school at this time. The 8th Grade test is to be completed by April 6.

After the test is given, all testing materials should be returned to the Superintendent's Office so that test can be sent to the University of Kentucky to be machine scored.

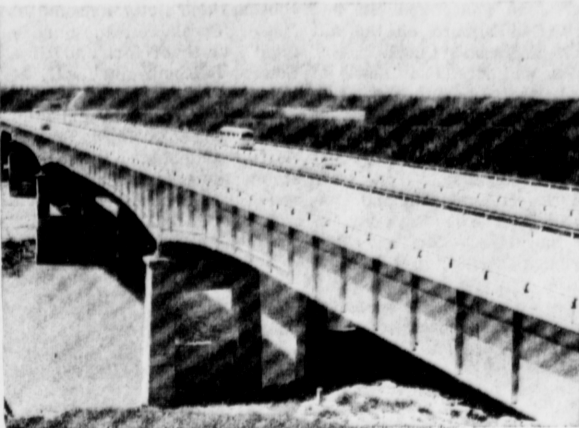

The 8th Grade students should ride the regular school bus to the testing centers. The lunch at the testing centers will cost 25c.

Surveys are being made preparatory to participating in Operation Headstart. Plans are being made to make preschool training available to every child who will be entering school this fall. A number of Centers are being planned that will be as convenient as possible for all children who will be six years old by January 1, 1966. Drop-out students have pointed out that many "early school leavers" were retained in grades one and two. It is certain that a kindergarten program will eliminate many failures in these two grades and will in turn reduce the number of dropouts.

It is the desire of the officials of the Economic Opportunity Act and local leaders to have local groups and local individuals give of their spare time to acquaint parents of the need for this program.

Kentucky State Police Announce Plans For Proposed Boys Camp

The Kentucky State Police have announced plans for a proposed boys camp to be built on "Trooper Island" in Dale Hollow Lake near the Kentucky Tennessee line.

State Police Director Colonel James E. Bassett said the camp buildings would cost about $150,000, to be raised by public subscription, and would accommodate 120 boys a week.

The camp would operate for one-week sessions during June, July and August, and would be primarily for boys between the ages of 10 and 14 who have been in regular attendance in school and from indigent families unable to afford a camping trip for them, Bassett said.

Camp activities will include sports and recreation, physical fitness training, courses in safety subjects, and vocational training in police courses and other subjects.

Bassett said the police plan to erect steel buildings large enough to handle 30 boys each; backed into the south fork of two additional buildings for the counselors, instructors, doctors only island in Kentucky given and clergymen; a house for a over entirely to a State park, year-round custodian; a chapel, recreation building; kitchen, mess hall and walk-in refrigerator; plus a bath house, boat dock, recreational grounds, hiking trail and swimming area.

The custodian will be the only salaried employee of the camp, Bassett said. Counselors and instructors will be drawn from the State police, fish and wildlife officers, conservation officials, civil defense workers, and from religious and civic organizations.

Bassett said the camp does not now contemplate taking delinquents as such. "However, because a boy may have had a run in with school authorities, or even a brush with the police, does not rule him out," he said. "We realize that we possess neither the professional knowledge nor the time to cope with incorrigible boys."

Bassett said that sometime in the future the camp may take some of the good behavior boys from State institutions for delinquents.

Bassett pointed out that the major purpose of the camp is "to foster a constructive relationship between law enforcement officials and the youth of Kentucky."

"We want the youngsters to know that the Kentucky State Police are their friends not their foes," he stated. "As a result the daily camp routine will emphasize the qualities of citizenship and leadership, working toward the relationship of respected friend, not suspected foe."

Bassett said he is convinced that "a little time spent with these young people on a close personal basis will have a desirable impact on their thinking. We can convince them that the police are to help, not hurt, them and that laws were written for their protection and not designed to punish them."

ROWDY Writer Urges

Residents To Aid In Clean-Up Move

By Elsie Noble

Our son Arliss Noble was killed on Highway 15 about 1 1/2 mile from home. He had been home on leave from Fort Bragg, North Carolina. He was in the fourth year of school at M. C. Napier when he entered the Army, he had finished school in the Army.

We have received many letters from his commanding officers saying he always went about his work with a smile.

We want to thank all those that sent flowers and all who came during our sad hours.

A special thanks goes to Maggard Funeral Home, Rev. Wiremon Neace, Rev. Ola Hays and Rev. Miller.

Mr. Taylor Miller and sons from Paris, Ohio, have been visiting us the past few days.

A few of the farmers have their gardens out. Jordan Noble has his potatoes and onions planted.

The unemployed fathers are doing a real good job on fixing the roads around here.

We are all trying to help make the clean-up drive a complete success in Perry County.

We want to make our county a more beautiful place to live.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Meet April 2

The Hazard Memorial Gymnasium will be converted into a gigantic Kingdom Hall for the Circuit Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses. 600 out of town delegates are expected to attend.

The assembly convenes Friday, April 2 - 6:45 p.m. and will conclude Sunday April 4th. Richard Flint, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses here said, the main purpose of the convention is to train each individual delegate to be a better Bible teacher in their community.

Flint explained, the overlying theme of the assembly is based on the scripture at Psalm 110:3, "Willingly Fulfill your Ministry." The principle speakers are Paul R. Ruggles, Detroit minister and William L. Kirby, circuit minister. They are both graduates of the Watchtower School of Gilead.

Ruggles has been a full-time minister for 20 years. He was in foreign missionary service for two and one half years in Bogota, Colombia - South America. He has been in circuit and district work for the past eleven years. Mr. Ruggles will deliver the main featured public address Sunday at 3:00 p.m. entitled, "The Moral Breakdown - What Can Be Done About It?"

Before their immersion, Paul R. Ruggles will at 1:00 p.m. give pertinent information outlining how baptism shows faith and how Christ Jesus commanded the making of disciples and baptism. Matthew 28: 19, 20.

Richard Flint of Hazard said, "the public is invited to attend all sessions."

Folks as we are rounding out near the end of a blustery March in more ways than one, first many of us are disappointed that we didn't win the BIG DOUBLE DRIBBLE EVENT AT FREEDOM HALL THIS YEAR. I have heard so many excuses offered in regard to why we didn't. Personally I don't think we have any to offer, only we just lost by the skin of our teeth. I can't see any reason why any should lay the blame on anyone should lay the blame on any particular reason why we lost the State Tournament. First I would say have we taken into consideration that we don't have a Professional Team representing us at such a big event. Did it ever occur that these are boys still going to school, yes fifteen to seventeen years old. Not yet have they reached the age of adulthood. Yet I have seen College players also the Pros. make great mistakes than what our team has been accused of. Lets take it all into consideration. How many of you that are so eager to criticize realize how many teams of this Commonwealth fought for the privilege of even getting to play in this final event of the STATE TOURNAMENT?

Which there is only sixteen teams represented from all corners of our STATE. I have heard that there were in the neighborhood of 450 teams fighting for this honor to be among the sixteen to be represented at this STATE MEET. Did any of you ever stop to think that we finished in the TOP FOUR of this great and honored event. Did you ever stop to realize how many times Hazard has been represented in this event? I would say if other projects had been so well represented as the Basket Ball teams have done in the past, I would say HAZARD would be one of the best advertised towns in the world. So my HAT is off to the Coaches and the PLAYERS of the fine showing they displayed in this the 1965 STATE BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT. May the support of all of you continue until a next SEASON, let's set our goal to even higher gains than this past season. My congratulations to a great HAZARD HIGH SCHOOL TEAM. And too all that have worked to make this possible for two years in a row. These things just don't happen without a lot of hard work. Lets give due Consideration when and where it is deserved.

SINCE WE ARE ON

The March blustery weather, we sure have had some squalls, some have been rather severe. They would have made you raise up off a two or even a three holder, it all depends on how good you had it under pinned. I have my first one yet to see that when the right gust of wind came along didn't make you move one way or another. Wasn't it a great relief when the wind stopped blowing? That sudden calm sure was relaxing wasn't it? I will always say that a three holder had more draft than a two holder type. Confound my hide it to me just created more drafts, some say no. I will say say a three holder always offered more draft. BELIEVE me it was cold. Sometimes I wonder if more people didn't die from this type of exposure than has been explained. If he only had a light stroke or light of any other disease, this sudden change on a cold night could have added to his or hers other ailments. Folks it takes a strong constitution to face the elements anymore. Since so many of your kindfolks wants to brag on their inside toilets, or out houses, which ever you want to call them.

IT IS HERE AGAIN

Yes folks the flood waters have come again on this the 26th day of March, 1965, at this time the waters are receding at 7:00 p.m., yet how slow they start going down. We never know how far they will go with it still raining some. No it was not as great this time in general as it has been in the past. Yet to many of you it was a great one each time the waters gets this big, it causes you the same amount of loss worry and trouble as the big floods did. So many of you that live near the streams. You have built your hopes on promises that there would never be any more floods in this valley. This I have heard since 1927, yet nothing has been done except a lot of talk, and paper work. When the waters start rising this certainly doesn't keep it from your doors.

I would like for some intelligent party to tell me why that we have been neglected all these years. I would really like to hear a firm concrete answer to this question. I will say that part of it is our own fault, we the people soon forget, that is until the waters start rising again, then suddenly we realize that nothing has been done. So few of us are more or less made fun of for always preaching flood control in this valley. This writer and the other few that have wanted to see something done, has been what you might say water over the dam. This date I have watched so many of you pace the streets looking at the gauge on the bridge. Many asking questions, how much do you think it will rise? Do you think I should move? If it gets like it has I will quit.

Folks that is what I can hear at a crucial time such as this, let me ask you a question what are you doing about it? In the past I have offered my meager suggestion to what should be done to give us a quick relief from these muddy waters. I realize that dams such as some I know of does do a good job. To mention a few: Buckhorn and Crank's Creek Dams let's stop and think. How long does it take to complete such a project as a flood control dam? Buckhorn Dam was first on paper in 1938, finished in the 1960's. Carrs Fork Dam is on paper at this time, it is possible that it could be finished before 1970, but just think of all the floods that could happen in the meantime. We have no assurance, no insurance either that it won't happen before sundown tomorrow.

Once again I will stress my meager suggestions to what could give immediate relief. Maybe the Corps of Army Engineers won't agree with me, they never did agree with anything unless it cost as much as $50,000,000. It would save more than that if they would have tried to work on smaller projects. Say for instance diverting the North Fork of the Ky. River, or portions of it down various cuts through the mountains. Nothing proves this to me more than to see this cut that went through the mountain in Walkertown, also the cut through at Jackson. It didn't take years to do this, but at a period of only eight working months to get it through this big hill, at a cost of near $2,000,000. I know what the cost has been on some of the Flood Control Dam, this water can be by passed at a much less cost than dams, it can be done much faster. We need immediate relief. This writer (Roscoe Davis) is in favor of the Dams because of their recreation values. We need to think of something quick that will stop the suffering of our people during such times. Anxiety and worry will never develop progress to anyone.

Another suggestion I will offer once again, that if the excess foliage of trees were cut back from our streams it would allow the flow of water to move on out, I would suggest that this start in Letcher County near Whitesburg and extend to the vicinity of Chavies. Also on all feeder streams this would help the flow of water to move on down the stream. Who is in better position to know these simple facts than the Army Corps of Engineers, why can't they come up with something simple to help our people. Yes to do it quick in this valley, not wait all these years since 1927. We are running out of time.

At this time I would say that people such as Oil Companies, and other types of business should lend a hand in trying to get some type of control of our waters without further delay. I guess without a doubt that the Oil Co's and their service stations takes a big loss at a time only as it has been today. Which has been what we call a small flood at this hour. I saw a Standard Service Station, also a Gulf Service Station here in the City limits of Hazard flooded out. If we are going to get flood control in this Valley, lets lay the cards on the table. Either tells one of two things. YES or NO. We have been pussy footing around too many years now. I for one have heard too many promises, if you the people that are in this flood zone would only say your little bit, I am confident that something would be started at once. Your local advertising medium can't carry your expressions always with the weight that you expect. I would say now is the time for some of you to start talking for your own interest. If we would stay aroused as much when the waters are low as they are HIGH, we would have already had protection. If we want to continue to live on promises, that we will have. It takes action, that action must come from you the people that live and hold interest in this VALLEY. I personally feel it is now time and past time for you to speak up. ARE WE GOING TO CONTINUE TO LIVE ON PROMISES? Say We Need Action.

To All Law Enforcement

A NATIONAL POLICE FORCE is a tool of tyranny. I abhor the implications of the term, and I refuse to let the FBI be forced into practices which smack of police state actions, regardless of the circumstances.

Our country today is caught up in a great and too-long neglected cause of human rights. Some individuals, in their efforts to secure the fundamental guarantees of the Constitution for all citizens, have criticized this Bureau for not exceeding its authority and for not assuming responsibilities belonging to local and State Police.

The FBI fully appreciates the grave responsibility inherent in the investigation of alleged violations of Federal civil rights statutes. As I have stated many times, we are meeting these obligations without apology. Our role, however, is that of an investigator—not an accuser, prosecutor, jury, or judge. The FBI is a fact-gathering and fact-reporting agency, not a national police force. It is not empowered to furnish protection nor to police the streets of our communities.

Citizens should not be misled by the self-styled "medicine men" in our midst who with their patented tonics for all social ills profess to hold the magic key to Utopia. Under close examination, their credentials often prove to be as false as their charges that the FBI is "dragging its feet" and is not determined to enforce civil rights laws. The ludicrousness of these charges is exceeded only by their inaccuracy. What these drummers of discord are actually advocating is that the FBI dispense with the democratic principles of law enforcement and apply police state methods.

In a democracy, the end does not always justify the means. We must not lose sight of the fact that the path of justice is a two-way street.

To my mind, the freedoms and rights of our Nation can be implemented, as well as preserved, without resorting to totalitarian tactics.

Banquet Ends 3-Day Annual Meeting Of Ky. Federation of Homemakers

Cecile Bates — Home Demonstration Agent

A banquet with an Hawaiian theme tonight climaxed the three-day annual meeting of the Kentucky Federation of Homemakers, which some 1,500 Homemakers from throughout the state have attended here this week.

The banquet theme was selected because the National Extension Homemakers Council, the national organization of the Homemakers, held its annual meeting in Hawaii last fall. Tonight's program featured Kentucky Homemakers who attended the national meeting in Honolulu.

Special recognition was given during the banquet to Mrs. C. P. Moore, Nelson County Homemaker, for her efforts toward adoption of a commemorative postage stamp honoring the Homemakers organization. The unveiling of the 5-cent stamp which initiated its sale nationally, took place at the Hawaii meeting. The idea of the commemorative stamp was suggested in 1957, when Mrs. Moore was a district Federation publicity chairman, and she led the national campaign for adoption of the stamp. Mrs. Harry J. Braun, Campbell county, outgoing president of the Kentucky Homemakers Federation, presided at the banquet, which opened with a "muu-muu parade". Homemakers who attended the Hawaii meeting wore the traditional Hawaiian garments, "muu-muus," in the "fashion" parade.

Banquet feature was an illustrated talk by Mrs. W. K. Morris on Hawaii's traditions, customs and scenery and on the national Homemakers meeting last fall. Other Homemakers taking part on the program included Mrs. Jesse Shipp, Hardin county; and Christian county Homemakers Mrs. Duncan Farmer, Mrs. Eston Glover and Mrs. Paul Jones. Mrs. Charlie Combs, Mrs. Charlie Fugate, Mrs. Elmer Hall and Miss Margaret Lowery were the Perry County Homemakers who are attending the banquet.

COMBS

Clean-Up Campaign In Full Swing

By H. C. Robertson

The clean-up campaign in Perry County is in full swing. The people in several areas have gathered trash and put it at the road sides where it can be picked up.

The Highway Department, The Forestry Department, The State and County Health Departments, the Vocational School and unemployed father crews are lending great support to this unusual and important campaign.

The Combs News joins in this effort by Mrs. Katie Combs, chairwoman of the drive, The Hazard Herald and the citizens of Perry County and Hazard to make this project a 100% success.

Everyone is urged to clean-up their yards, around their garages and in the alleys and everywhere in Combs to make our little town a more beautiful place in which to live.

This will be an inspiration to our children to keep the town clean and bring worthwhile citizens to our community to live.

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Combs Methodist Church will be held at the close of the Sunday afternoon service.

The service will be at 3 p.m. instead of 6:30 p.m. Dr. William F. Pettus, the district superintendent, will be in charge.

Bill Sizemore has been discharged from the Appalachian Hospital.

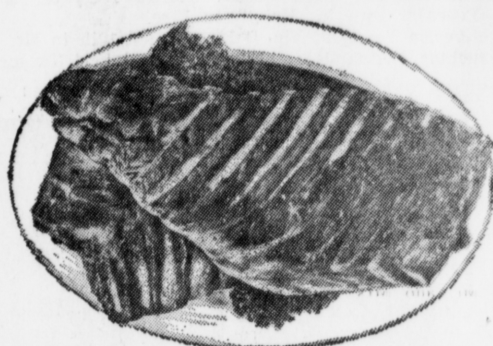

Shirley Robertson visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Robertson, over the weekend.

The W.S.C.S. of the Combs Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Hoskins at 7 p.m. Thursday.

John Sams, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Sams, has been admitted to the Appalachian Hospital.

Jehovah Witness Meetings Cancelled

Richard Flint, presiding minister of Jehovah's Witnesses here, announced that all meetings at the local Kingdom Hall will be cancelled.

The reason, he said, was that all of Jehovah's Witnesses in the congregation will be attending the Circuit Convention being held in Hazard, Ky., April 2-4, 1965 in the Memorial Gymnasium. The theme of the convention is "Willingly Fulfill Our Ministry."

The convention highlight will be Sunday at 3:00 p.m. when Watchtower representative, Paul R. Ruggles from the International Headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses gives the featured public address, "The Moral Breakdown - What Can Be Done About It?" Many from Hazard will participate in the convention Flint said. The public is invited to all sessions.

Liberally mix several old tin cans full of fun, with a mop of hair that always seems to need to be cut. Sprinkle in streaks of orneriness, pride, courage, envy, and maybe even a little fear. And there: you've made a boy. Well, almost. Boys, wonderfully, have a sweet sense of the bigness and beauty and mystery of things. And it's this sense of bigness, beauty and mystery we hope they'll never lose.

Contributed to Religion in American Life by:

Religion is an awfully big word to a little boy. But the spirit of it isn't. And it's the spirit of religion that can bring peace, comfort, security and goodness to a boy—his whole life through.

Hit-the-bat, hide'n'seek—they're as vital to a boy as peanut-butter sandwiches. So is the help of true religious faith. Your children should worship this week in your church or synagogue. And the best way to see to it is to be there with them yourself.

Don't make me laugh.

You mean to say, I could have bought a big, luxurious Dodge Polara, and I would have gotten a 383 cu. in. V8, carpeting, foam seats, and all those other things at no extra cost?

Who's laughing?

At Polara's prices, why clown around with smaller cars? See your Dodge Dealer.

See Polara—with a 121 inch wheelbase, weighing almost 4,000 pounds. Powered by a 383 cu. in. V8. At popular prices.
